DEATH CUT DOWN KING EDWARD VII

After a Brief Illness of Pneumonia.

ROYAL FAMILY AT BEDSIDE

When End Came — Worry
Over Political Affairs
Hastened Death.

Edward VII., King by the grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, defender of the faith and Emperor of India, died in Buckingham Palace, his London home, at 11:45 o'clock Friday night, in the presence of his family, after an illness of less than a week, which was serious hardly more than three days.

The Prince of Wales succeeded to the crown immediately, according to the laws of the kingdom, without official ceremony.

His first official act was to dispatch to the lord mayor an announcement of his father's death, in pursuance of the custom.

The king's physicians issued an official bulletin, as follows:

"May 6, 11:50 p. m.—His majesty, the king, breathed his last at 11:45 o'clock to-night, in the presence of her majesty, Queen Alexandra, the Prince and Princess of Wales, Princess Royal, Duchess of Fife, Princess Victoria and Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll.

(Sig) "LAKING,
"REID,
"POWELL,
"DAWSON."

Pneumonia, following bronchitis, is believed to have been the cause of death, at the doctors refused to make a statement.

Some of the king's friends are convinced that work over the critical political situation, which confronted him, with sleepless nights, aggravated it, and it did not cause the fatal illness.

Intelligence that the end of King Edward's reign had come was not a surprise in the least. The capital received it without excitement, but sadly, for the king, with his own people, was unquestionably one of the most popular rulers in the world.

Within a few minutes after the death of the king, the home office was telegraphing the intelligence to the heads of the other governments and British diplomacy and colonial officials throughout the world.

Several hours before death the king was in a comatose condition, but he rallied slightly between 9 and 10 o'clock and appeared to recognize his family. Then he lapsed into unconsciousness, which ended in his passing.
